“Rocking Chair” pp 124 Hans J. Wegner 1984.

In this his final Rocking Chair Wegner combined elements he had used successfully in his 1968 Web chair.

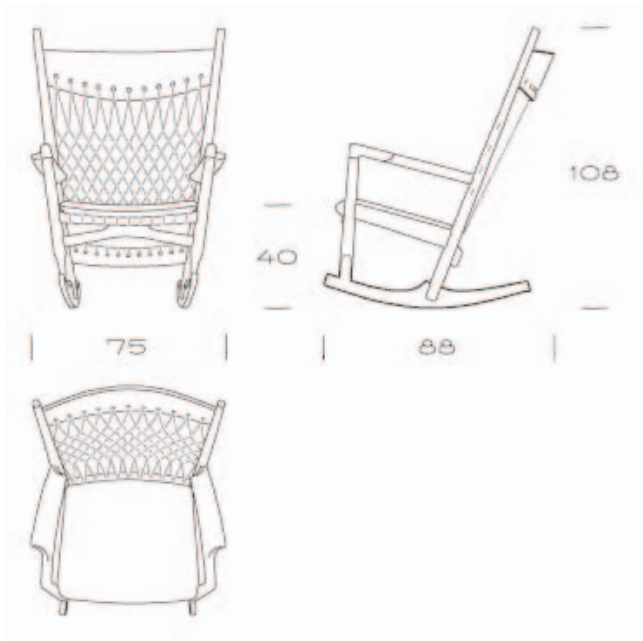

The V-form fanning upwards and the loose neck cushion characteristic of the Web Chair are retained as is the woven seat and back, woven from approximately 80 metres of flag halyard.

This is a rocking chair on which even a child can move back and forth, a movement that suits its light and airy looks perfectly.

Wegner must have been satisfied with the shape of the armrest and V-shaped back of pp 124, as he used these details again in two chairs he designed in 1990 – The Møller Chair for Churchill College, Cambridge, and the fabulously comfortable conference room chair, pp 240.

“I have never been afraid of failure or of something going wrong”.

Hans J. Wegner.
